

Closing the Gap

With an UNBIASED Family Office

For High to Ultra-High Net Worth Families

The Oversight Gap

The strategic oversight of a large, complex, and multi-generational estate requires the broadest financial skill set, the greatest understanding of a family's situation and goals, and an onerous and ongoing commitment of time.

Unfortunately, most families are left to manage this responsibility on their own. Given how complex the challenge, it's rare for families to possess the diverse and specialized financial skills, experience, or time to gather and consolidate the data necessary to direct a team of financial experts on their own. This creates an oversight gap.

Why?

Unfortunately, the financial services industry is largely made up of subject matter experts operating within narrowly focused silos. The industry is simply not organized to provide strategic oversight on a net worth or a family-centric basis.

To do so would require advisors to understand your values, your goals, and comprehensive details regarding your family's net worth. It would require a shift away from long standing specialization practices to a more holistic approach.

The Family Office Solution

The primary purpose of an unbiased family office is to address the gap in strategic oversight.

Our role is to guide and support families in setting clear and specific goals. Then we help establish policy; address gaps; update the outdated; provide meaningful consolidated reporting; and provide non-product-based advice and direction beyond your investment portfolio.

Aggregated record keeping and reporting, strategic planning, vendor coordination and direction are completed without you needing to become a financial expert; or dedicating your life to managing your family's finances.
